—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Laugh-ton is residing at Tacoma, Washington Territory. His prospects for the future are favorable. He has studied law and will soon be admitted to the bar.

—It is a good rule to accept only such medicines as are known to be worthy of confidence. It has been the experience of thousands that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best medicine ever used for throat and lung diseases.

—There are several cranks in town who are snarling and growling at the idea that there is a chance for a mining boom in Carson this Summer. This, coming right on top of the electric light and the building appropriation bills, has driven them clean daft.

—How the Democrats do love one another. The Examiner accuses the Alta man of "sulking in his tent," and the Alta man speaks of Hearst's splendid enterprise in getting out a Washington edition as "an attempt to turn San Francisco's bid for the convention into a private advertising affair."

—Everybody needs a Spring medicine. By using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the blood is thoroughly cleansed and invigorated, the appetite stimulated, and the system prepared to resist the diseases peculiar to the Summer months. Ask for Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Take no other.

—The female Mayor of Argonia, Kan; was elected as a joke, but a good many of the citizens think they have caught a Tartar. She has put a stop to their poker games, billiard playing and similar amusements after 9 P. M., and sprees and jamborees are things of the past. Everybody is in bed by 9:30, and sporting men are seeking fields and pastures new.

ED. TOWNSEND'S PIN.

He Gets It Into the Wrong Woman's Leg.

Some years ago, when Fred Meder's theatrical troupe was in this city, Ed. Townsend, who is now famous as the business manager of the S. F. Examiner, was on very friendly terms with Meder, and allowed a good many liberties behind the scenes not allowed to less favored mortals.

One night when the play was in progress Ed. was behind the scenes, when he looked through a crack in the scenery and saw the swelling outlines of a leg in tights within a few inches of the crack. He sent a friend round to the side to see whose leg it was, and the friend discovered that the lady who stood in tights and doublet just in front of the crack was one greatly admired by Townsend. The friend at once told Ed. that the leg in question belonged to a man named Sullivan, whom Ed. heartily disliked. As soon as the joker behind the scenes learned of the identity of the mouse colored hose in front of the crack he hunted up a pin, a stick, a piece of thread. He got the thread from the ladies' dressing room by exposing his fell plot.

When the ladies learned that he intended fastening the pin to the stick and boring it into Sullivan's leg, they were greatly elated and very handy in helping him put up the job.

Then the false friend at the wings slipped around and posted the ladies on the real situation. The news made them boil over with delight.

Then Ed. got down on his hands and knees, and while half the company watched he said:

"Won't Sullivan jump round lively when he feels the pin?"

All admitted that Sully would jump round lively.

Then he poked the stick through the crack and jabbed it into the leg in front.

There was a smothered exclamation, and the little Prince in Richard III jumped about three feet in the air to the astonishment of the company and the audience. Townsend rolled over behind the scenes with laughter, and looking round saw the calm face of Macduff (Sullivan) gazing at him from the wings. He began to think there must be some mistake, and a few minutes later, when the little lady who had got the pin jammed into the calf of her leg came in on him like a whirlwind and caught him right there by the crack with the pin and stick in his hand, he felt that he would have given $7,000 cash to have been up in Jake Klein's brewery with Charlie Pope.

The ladies who had assisted him to put up the job deserted him in a body, and left him alone with the pin-stuck girl.

Her reading of the riot act was pronounced great work. Townsend did not go behind the scenes again for nearly a year.

THE BRUSH ELECTRIC.

The Dynamos Started Yesterday.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday the engine which runs the dynamos was started up at the Box Factory, and the machine began to revolve. Turning slowly at first, it finally became almost invisible by reason of its rapid motion, as its queer spokes mingled together and then melted into nothing. There were twelve Brush lamps attached to the machine to be tested. As the machine revolved, little blue and white sparks began to creep along the copper slats that touched the revolving mass of helixes, and suddenly a blinding flood of light flashed from the lamps, and the effect was indescribable.

The sun was streaming brightly into the room—it being about 2 o'clock—and it seemed to give way in eclipse to the electric glare. The machine worked perfectly and after the workman had watched the light awhile then went out of doors and for a few moments everything seemed in darkness. The electrician pronounced the machine perfect.

IMMIGRATION.

A Well Worded Circular From the State Board.

From the circular issued by the State Board of Immigration the following extracts are made: In each county of Nevada, chiefly by means of irrigation, the agricultural products common to the temperate zone are produced in abundance, the soil and climate being well adapted to general farming. Abundant crops of grain, alfalfa, potatoes and garden vegetables are raised by proper irrigation and proper tillage. Three crops of alfalfa are cut each season. Stock breeding, including cattle, horses and sheep, is extensively carried on, owing to the extensive grazing lands of these counties. All fruits adapted to a temperate climate thrive with proper care, their yield being bountiful and of a very superior quality. Nevada took the first and second prizes for apples, potatoes and wheat at the exposition at New Orleans.

RAILROADS

The Central Pacific Railroad runs through Truckee and Humboldt valleys, a distance of four hundred miles. The Virginia and Truckee, connecting with the Central Pacific at Reno, runs through Truckee Meadows, Washoe and Eagle valleys. The Carson & Colorado connects with the Virginia and Truckee at Mound House and runs through Carson, Mason and Walker Lake valleys. The Nevada & California connects with the Central Pacific at Reno, running through Spanish Springs and Long valleys. The Nevada Central connects with the Central Pacific at Battle Mountain, and runs through Reese river valley. The Eureka and Palisade connects with the Central Pacific at Palisade, running through Pine, Garden and Diamond valleys.

CLIMATE.

The climate of Nevada is the most delightful and salubrious in the known world. Neither the prostrating heats and destructive cyclones, nor the Arctic frosts and deadly blizzards of the Western States are known here. The consumption-breeding fogs, and countless insect pests that swarm in other lands, are also strangers in Nevada. The warmest days of Summer are modified by some Southwest winds, laden with the sweet odor of wild flowers, and the invigorating aroma of the ingenious sage, while the nights are seasons of transcendent loveliness, rendered so by the gentle breezes that waft health and vigor to the sleeper. In June and July occasional thunder storms cool the air and freshen the face of nature. The Winters with the exception of a few cold days, are Spring-like, the snow remaining only a short time, except at great altitudes. Malarious fever and pulmonary consumption are exceedingly rare, and are usually imported cases, while small-pox, measles and kindred diseases are short of their terrors by the dryness and purity of the atmosphere. Scrofula, salt rheum and similar inherited taints of blood, are, in a few years, almost entirely eradicated from the system by the wonderful healing properties of Nevada's matchless climate. Nevada may be justly styled "The World's Great Sanitarium." For further information address:
